

Introduction to Scholarship & University Applications

Focusing on competencies and understanding of these we work to create a depth of knowledge as to personal abilities as demonstrated in school, work and home life for students to draw on in scholarship applications.

Offering suggestions as to effective application writing we highlight areas requiring attention and recommend self-reflection, assessment of behaviours. We also equip students to manage challenges to confidence during the process of scholarship applications for further studies.

Reflecting on the common expectations of various university applications and scholarship opportunities we outline the framework of expectations from colleges and universities. Presenting core competencies whilst reflecting on students personal experiences within school, community, work and volunteer capacities, we address:

Expectations of the Application

Sharing perspective of the reader and so their "world" and desires of the application, effort of the individual and documentation.

Definitions & Understanding

Providing clarity around phrases and words commonly used by colleges and universities we create understanding as to meaning and purpose in alignment to success in a tertiary setting. This includes:

- Leadership
- Teamwork
- Innovation
- Communication

"Kathryn drew their attention to the various employment related skills that they may have gained over the years and helped them enhance their understanding on how to apply for scholarships, cadetships and jobs in an innovative and interesting way. The students' feedback was great they enjoyed her insightful, engaging and empowering session. They gained self-awareness, had a better understanding of themselves and on what employers look for."
