

The Workplace: Skills to Achieve

Developing basic workplace skills are essential for students transitioning into their first job or planning for their future.

Recognising competencies employers assess at interview we inform students of how to best present their skills.

Turning Point Consulting

Highlighting competencies sort by employers and leaders in the workplace, students will be offered insights into how they can develop and demonstrate transition skills whilst at school through hobbies, activities, volunteering and school-based programs. Our work with students will connect the tangible skills they are building in their school lives to life beyond and so enhance their sense of purpose within their learning.

Personal Strengths

A moment for personal reflection allowing students to better understand themselves and to recognise their natural skills and talents which can help inform future career directions.

General Work Skills

Through a combination of interactive activities, discussion and games students will have learn about the following critical skills for any new employee:

- Personal attributes
- Communication skills
- Confidence in the workplace
- Problem solving and team work

"Kathryn has successfully assisted our Careers Adviser and our College in providing our students, in particular our Year 12 students both relevant and comprehensive information with respect to future career pathways. Kathryn's presentations to the students and the parents have been valuable and beneficial in providing the necessary guidance, material and expertise needed. We are grateful to Turning Point Consulting for the positive impact it has had in the support given."
